

2019 TSC South East South London Regional Conference

Making the Difference: Collaborative Learning in the School Led System

Twickenham Stadium, 200 Whitton Road, Twickenham, TW2 7BA

Learning from and with schools and school leaders to improve outcomes for children and young people

We are calling on all school leaders, system leaders, Teaching Schools and educational professionals to work together to build on the great work that is taking place in the school led system. There will be great collaborative learning opportunities for leaders and educational professionals at all levels. We know the more we learn from and with our colleagues, the greater the impact upon the students we serve. There is a huge wealth of knowledge, experience and high quality practice across the South East and South London that this conference offers an opportunity to learn from to secure even greater impact in the future in our schools and across schools.

The conference will also offer excellent professional networking and CPD opportunities with colleagues from across the South East South London region leading to further opportunities of working together in the future.

Making the Difference will:

Explore the opportunities and challenges facing the school led system as it prepares for further change.

Inspire you to delve into Teacher Expertise Development through the research of Samantha Twisleton and how it links to Curriculum Design. (See below for profile on Sam)

Enable you to see the evidence of impact on the outcomes for children and young people from the collaborative working and innovation of schools across the region

Professor Samantha Twiselton is the Director of Sheffield Institute of Education at Sheffield Hallam University. She uses her research and practice in the development of teacher expertise, and curriculum design to develop school embedded approaches to teacher development.

Sam has been heavily involved in influencing Government policy on teacher education and was recently a member of the advisory panel for the Department for Education Carter Review of ITT and the DfE Expert Behaviour Management Panel. She is currently on the OFSTED curriculum review and the DfE Teacher Recruitment and Retention advisory groups. In June 2018 she was named in the Queen's birthday honours as a recipient of an OBE for services to Higher Education.
